Another Source™ Named as a YWCA Major Donor

Seattle, WA - December 20, 2005 – In an effort to support the health and wellbeing of Puget Sound area women and their families, Another Source, Inc has donated countless hours and monetary support to the YWCA of King and Snohomish County. In November of 2005, the YWCA named Another Source, Inc as a major donor.

"Another Source has a mission to positively impact the communities in which we serve. Our staff is proud to support the YWCA and their similar mission to enable women and their families to live healthy and successful lives." - Marcie Glenn, Another Source Vice President Operations and member of the leadership committee for GirlsFirst, a YWCA leadership program for girls of color entering their freshman year of high school.

Another Source, Inc embraces a philosophy to continue to increase the company's ability to positively affect clients and community members in more areas than daily business. By donating approximately 5% of earnings to the YWCA, among other organizations, the staff at Another Source, Inc is able to make a positive difference.

Along with annual giving, Another Source, Inc has planned activities for the women and families that utilize the YWCA including a 2004 holiday party at the downtown YWCA. The company directly sponsored a family in need by filling their home with new furniture, holiday decorations, and gifts. The staff at Another Source, Inc is actively involved with YWCA Opportunity Place, an organization committed to addressing the fundamental causes of homelessness by providing affordable housing, job training, reducing social isolation, and helping women overcome the impact of domestic violence and homelessness. The staff delivers birthday cakes to Opportunity Place feeding 150-200 the last Friday of every month.

Seeing the devastation and destruction of this past hurricane season, the Another Source team felt compelled to do something in efforts to ease the suffering of victims in New Orleans. They requested donations from Pacific Rim and sent over 900 decorative candles and vases to the YWCA of New Orleans for disbursement during the holiday season. Locally, Another Source delivered 200 vases, also donated by Pacific Rim, to area assisted living organizations.

Another Source, Inc is proud of the non-profit organizations they support and will continue to donate time and efforts to educate, support, and enrich the lives of Puget Sound residents.
